

To Whom It May Concern:

Prior to the Indiana Telephone Privacy act, my household received in excess of 10 to 15 tele-marketing phone calls each day. Most calls were in the evening. Regardless of the source of the call, all calls were unsolicited and disrupted my personal time at home.

Since the introduction of the telephone privacy act, I am now able to enjoy my evenings without the constant disruption of unsolicited phone calls. I very much enjoy my privacy, and ask that you PLEASE vote down the Consumer Bankers Association's petition to impose the federal "established business relationship". I do business with these establishments out of necessity, and DO NOT want them to have the option to call me at will. No doubt, it will get out of hand and become a problem as it was in the past.

Thank you, and please give my comments consideration.

Sincerely,

James Ellis
